To apply to the Honors Program, please respond to the following prompts by using a Word file and link to a video, and then attach the file to your email application. For the written portion – please provide short essays – one or two paragraphs for each prompt. Email your application to regishonors@regis.edu.

The Honors Program will selectively admit up to forty students from its applicant pool. A limited number of $5000 Honors Scholarships will be awarded to select students on a competitive basis and are renewable and stackable, up to full tuition, for four years. Full consideration for the Honors Program will be given to all candidates who apply by April 3. However, priority scholarship consideration will be given to applicants who submit by March 3.

- 1) Describe your most meaningful learning experience. Did it involve risk, trust, leadership?
- 2) Discuss a book that is important to you.
- 3) Honors is a community of students who are “lovers of learning.” What do you think this community can offer you and what might you bring to this community?
- 4) Why Read? Why Write? Why Think?
- 5) What issue or challenge facing our world ignites your passion?
- 6) Create a video, your own “60 second lecture,” in which you discuss, perform, recite, and/or demonstrate something that is intellectually exciting to you. This is an opportunity to show a side of you that can’t be seen on a piece of paper. Maybe you’d like to recite a poem, tell a story, discuss a scientific theory that makes you wonder...or a whole host of other possibilities. Production value is NOT important. Feel free to use your cell phone. Remember, this need not be longer than one minute.

To share your video: create a Google Drive account (google.com/drive) and upload your file to share it. When prompted, invite us at regishonors@regis.edu to view it. For technical questions see the help page at Google Drive.
