AMERICAN PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION (APA) FORMAT, 6th Edition (2010)
Regis Writing Center

NOTES:

- Double space all lines, including long quotes and the References page.
- Use page numbers for direct quotations if the article is in PDF format. Otherwise, use paragraph numbers (para.), chapters (chap.), or heading names (Conclusion section).
- With the exception of the ERIC database, APA no longer uses citations to library subscription databases, such as Academic Search Premier or PsycInfo. Instead, use a DOI, which may be checked at CrossRef.org (<http://crossref.org>). If no DOI is available, insert the web page address after the words "Retrieved from."
- Date of retrieval may be omitted if the source of a document is unlikely to change. However, use retrieval dates for encyclopedias, dictionaries, wiki's, handbooks, pre-print publications, magazines or journals not offered in print format, and articles that do not have a date of publication (those you note as "n.d." in the References).
- If no publication date is available, use the abbreviation "n.d." within parenthesis.
- For additional information, refer to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association or come to the Writing Center.

A digital object identifier (DOI) is a unique numeric code that usually appears in the heading of the article. If a DOI is present, no date of retrieval or URL is necessary.
