

Business Administration

In today's competitive global business market, a degree in business administration provides you with a solid foundation in business fundamentals, including the application of current management and technical solutions to business problems, and the analytic tools needed for critical thinking and ethical decision-making.

Redefine business as usual.

Business leaders recognize the impression business has on humanity by considering important questions: Who do businesses serve? How do they contribute to our built environment? What is their impact on local communities? The B.S. in Business Administration from Regis University provides you with an intimate, hands-on experience with modern business through the lens of targeted specializations.
