CLINICAL INFORMATION

Schedule

The schedule will be posted on our New Students Resource's website for accepted students. You will not know your specific clinical schedule until a few weeks before each rotation. Regis University uses a bidding system for clinical placement so you will rank your choices from the available options and then the clinical placement team will assign you to your rotation.

COMPETITIVE APPLICATION

As for competitive applications for our BSN program, we are looking at academic history, letters of recommendation, personal statements, and health care/volunteer experience. We place the most amount of weight on academic history; your cumulative GPA will include all college level courses and your science GPA will be calculated from the four science prerequisite courses. For the science GPA we will use the highest grade earned for each course in our calculation (both grades will be used in the cumulative GPA calculation).

Application Deadlines Vary by Program

We recommend that applicants submit their application early since it does take NursingCAS a few weeks to process your documents and verify your application, but you have until the application deadline to submit.

GENERAL QUESTIONS

Shadowing a Current Student?

Due to the speed of the program, we do not schedule prospective students to shadow current students or attend a class. If you are interested in visiting campus, we'd like to invite you to attend an Information Session. We offer virtual and on-campus information sessions twice a month. We discuss the three programs, requirements, application process, as well as answer questions at each session. Attending an information session is also a great way to see the Nursing Skills and Simulation Labs. Please visit events.regis.edu/infosession for dates and location information.

Health Care Ethics

Health Care Ethics is a prerequisite course for our BSN programs. The Health Care Ethics course offered at Regis University is HCE 430, and is offered online every eight weeks. If accepted into any of our BSN programs, we can register you for this course the semester before you begin the program. Effective August 2019, the health care ethics prerequisite must be an upper-division course from a regionally-accredited college or university. Community college health care ethics courses will no longer be accepted as equivalents if completed after January 1, 2019. For any upper-division health care ethics course completed from a regionally-accredited university outside of Regis University, students must also complete an online module through Regis University to receive full credit for transfer. For questions, please contact your admissions counselor or the Office of Admissions at healthcare@regis.edu.
